Introduction

1. This annual report covers the period 13 May 2023 to 12 May 2024.
2. Alexander Stewart MSP left the Committee on 6 September 2023 and was replaced by Maurice Golden MSP.
3. At the start of the Parliamentary session, the remit of the Committee was extended to include citizen participation. Over the course of the Parliamentary year, the Committee has been considering its extended remit and how the Scottish Parliament should embed citizen participation, including deliberative engagement, in its work.

Meetings

4. During that period, 20 meetings took place in total, of which
- 3 meetings were held entirely in public
 - 17 meetings were held in public and included private items.

The work of the Committee on Citizen Participation

5. During this year the Committee has continued its work looking at how to embed participation in the work of the Scottish Parliament.
6. This year, the Committee considered evidence it had previously gathered and published its report 'Embedding Public Participation in the Work of the Parliament' in September 2023. This report was the result of a significant programme of work that began in 2022 and a People's Panel looking at the issue. The Committee's report made a series of recommendations to the Scottish Parliament and the Scottish Government.
7. The report was then debated in the Scottish Parliament on 26 October 2023. The Parliament:
 - agreed with the recommendation to establish two further citizens' panels in Session 6 with a view to making the use of such panels a regular feature of committee scrutiny from Session 7 onwards
 - endorsed the Committee's recommended principles for the future use of deliberative democracy and its recommendations for panel size, composition and participant selection
 - acknowledged the work already being done by Parliament staff to develop and improve engagement methods

8. A panel to support support the Net Zero, Energy and Transport Committee's post-legislative scrutiny of section 91 of the Climate Change (Scotland) Act 2009 took place early in 2024 and the second of the two further panels recommended by this Committee will take place in late 2024-early 2025.
9. The Committee has commissioned an evaluation of both panels. The evaluation and experience from both panels will inform the Committee's final report on citizen participation.

The work of the Committee on Petitions

10. Over the course of the Parliamentary year, the Committee considered a total of 153 petitions on a wide range of issues. Of these, 83 were continued petitions (i.e. petitions first considered before the start of the Parliamentary year) and 70 were new petitions (first considered during the Parliamentary year). Most petitions are considered on a number of occasions. Of those petitions considered by the Committee, 38 were closed. A full list of petitions considered is included in Annexe A.
11. Petitions may be lodged by individuals or organisations. This parliamentary year, 79 petitions have been published. Of those, 67 were submitted by individual petitioners and 12 were submitted by groups or organisations.
12. Since the beginning of the session, the Committee has sought a SPICe briefing and an initial submission from the Scottish Government on every new petition before the petition is included on a Committee agenda. This has allowed the Committee to make informed decisions on new petitions at their first consideration. This approach has worked well, and the Committee is grateful to the Scottish Government for continuing to engage positively with these requests for information.
13. The majority of the information gathered by the Committee is through written submissions. This Parliamentary year, submissions were received from -
 - petitioners
 - the Scottish Government
 - the UK Government
 - relevant organisations with an interest in the petition
 - individuals with relevant expertise
 - members of the public.
14. The Committee published 528 written submissions during the Parliamentary year. This figure includes the initial submissions received on every new petition from the Scottish Government.

15. The Committee has also heard oral evidence on petitions. During the Parliamentary year, evidence sessions were conducted both in a hybrid format and in person. This enabled the Committee to hear from a wide range of people and organisations from Scotland and beyond. The Committee heard from 46 people over 15 meetings.
16. This parliamentary year the Committee heard oral evidence on the following petitions:

Inquiry into A9 Dualling Project

17. In February 2023, the Citizen Participation and Public Petitions Committee began considering petition PE1992, which calls on the Scottish Government to fulfil its 2011 promise to dual the A9 between Perth and Inverness, improve road safety on this road, and consider the creation of a national memorial to those who have tragically lost their lives on the road.
18. The Committee gathered initial evidence from the Petitioner, the Minister for Transport, community councils, and the transport and civil engineering industry. A call for views, inviting wider views on the methods for dualling the A9, road safety measures, and the Petitioner's proposal for a national memorial, ran from 9 August to 15 September 2023.
19. At its meeting on 6 September 2023, the Committee took the unusual step of elevating its scrutiny of petition PE1992 to the level of an inquiry.
20. The Committee's inquiry into the A9 dualling project has sought to ensure that progress is made on dualling the A9. In order to do this the Committee has looked at what went wrong with the original 2025 completion date as well as scrutinising the action currently being taken to make sure that the Scottish Government's revised completion date of 2035 can be met.
21. During this reporting year, the Committee has heard oral evidence from:
 - Alex Neil, former Cabinet Secretary for Infrastructure and Capital Investment
 - Civil Engineering and Contractors Association (CECA) Scotland
 - Current and former senior officials at Transport Scotland
 - Màiri McAllan, who was at that point the Cabinet Secretary for Transport, Net Zero and Just Transition
 - Alex Salmond, former First Minister.

The Committee has also considered extracts of advice provided to Ministers between 2012 and 2023 on progress to dual the A9, alongside written evidence from former Cabinet Secretaries and Ministers who held portfolio responsibility for infrastructure and transport during this period.

22. Further information and updates on the progress of this inquiry can be found on the dedicated inquiry webpage.

Inquiries/case studies

PE1862: Introduce community representation on boards of public organisations delivering lifeline services to island communities

23. PE1862 is a long-running petition that the Committee has been considering throughout this parliamentary session. Previous work to explore the petition's aim of introducing community representation on boards of public organisations delivering lifeline services to island communities has included gathering written evidence from the Scottish Government, and hearing evidence from the Minister for Transport and the Scottish Government's Director of Aviation, Maritime, Freight and Canals.
24. On 20 December 2023, the Committee held an informative evidence session with the petitioners, Naomi Bremner, Angus Campbell, and Rona Mackay, to explore the specific proposals being put forward in their petition. This was a hybrid meeting of the Committee, with Committee Members and one petitioner in the room, and two of the petitioners participating online. One of the issues raised during the evidence session was making better use of technology to remove some of the barriers for island residents when applying for positions on the boards of public organisations, for example giving the option of participating in interviews online. As well as the valuable evidence the Committee heard from the petitioners, taking evidence in a hybrid format served as a demonstration of how to use technology to make it easier for people from island communities to participate in civic life.

PE1862 Petitioners providing evidence during a hybrid meeting of the Committee in December 2023

25. Following this evidence session, the Committee remains determined to get a clear answer from the Scottish Government on how the proposals set out in the petition can be taken forward in practice.

PE1900: Access to prescribed medication for detainees in police custody

26. The Committee considers all petitions regardless of how many signatures are received. As the Committee's first action we ask for the Scottish Government to respond in writing to the ask of the petition. This means that any admissible petition to the Scottish Parliament will be considered by the Committee and receive a response from the Scottish Government in line with the Committee's aim to be a voice for petitioners. As a result of this approach, Petition PE1900, despite having only 6 signatures, was successful in persuading the Scottish Government to act on the issue raised. The Committee's work contributed to the then Minister for Drugs and Alcohol Policy's decision to conduct a rapid review of each health board to ascertain the extent of the issues on controlled drug licences in police custody across Scotland.

27. As a result, all health boards have now formally considered whether their current arrangements for ensuring detainees can access prescribed medication are sufficient or if further measures, such as a controlled drug licence for custody suites in their areas, are required. Where necessary health boards have made applications for licences and improved policies, practice and training to ensure that every detainee has access to their medication in custody. The current Minister for Drugs and Alcohol Policy, Christina McKelvie MSP, has committed to requesting annual updates from health boards to ensure that they have continued to comply with the requirements set out in the Rapid Review.

PE1947: Address Scotland's culture of youth violence

28. This year, the Committee continued its consideration of petition PE1947 and agreed that it would meet with the petitioner and families with direct experience of the issues raised in the petition. Members of the Committee met an Edinburgh-based youth group, 6VT, and visited Milton in Glasgow to meet the petitioner and families with lived experience to inform their work on the petition. The Convener described the trip to Milton as -

” one of the most engaging, courageous, moving and disturbing exchanges that those of us present have had with members of the public

Source: Scottish Parliament, 2023¹

29. The visits helped to inform lines of questioning for two oral evidence sessions with academics and stakeholders, where the Committee put the families' experiences directly to witnesses. The Committee then wrote to the Minister for Victims and Community Safety to highlight the evidence received to date and ask further questions of the Minister.

PE2028: Extend the concessionary bus travel scheme to include people seeking asylum in Scotland

30. The First Minister typically appears before the Conveners Group of the Scottish Parliament twice per year, with Committee Conveners having the opportunity to question the First Minister on topics related to the remit of their committee. For the Citizen Participation and Public Petitions Committee Convener, this is often an opportunity to highlight the aims of a particular petition, or collection of petitions. When then First Minister, Humza Yousaf, appeared before the Conveners Group on 27 September 2023, the Convener took the opportunity to raise petition PE2028 and secure a commitment that extending concessionary travel to people seeking asylum was an issue that the Scottish Government was actively considering.

31. Following the Committee's initial consideration of this petition and the Convener raising awareness of the petition at Conveners Group, the Scottish Government have announced funding of £2million to support further exploration of extending free bus travel to people seeking asylum, with the commitment also noted as an immediate to short-term action in Transport Scotland's recently published Fair Fares Review. This petition is a clear demonstration of the impact petitions can have in convincing the Scottish Government to take action on a specific issue.

The Public Petitions System

32. Part of the Committee's remit is to "keep under review the operation of the petitions system".
33. As part of the continuous evaluation of the petitions process, the Committee updated its criteria on written submissions in light of feedback.
34. The Committee agreed to no longer publish information about the previous action taken by petitioners to streamline the information published about petitions.

Equal opportunities

35. The Committee is keen to ensure that the petition process is made accessible to the widest range of people. To achieve this, the Committee seeks to remove any barriers that may prevent people from creating a petition and facilitates additional support for petitioners throughout the process where required. Committee clerks have provided over-the-phone support by writing up submissions for petitioners who have to dictate, rather than type, as a result of medical conditions. Communications with petitioners have been provided in a printed format with large font for accessibility adjustments, where required. When preparing petitioners to give evidence to the Committee, potential barriers are discussed and additional support is planned, such as the provision of quiet spaces in the building.
36. The Committee has continued to focus on accessibility throughout its work on the Public Participation Inquiry. As part of its communications approach, the Committee published a summary of its report in multiple formats and languages including Easy Read, BSL, Gaelic, Polish, Turkish, Urdu, Arabic, and Ukrainian.
